

I pay for xm radio do not try to regulate it. FCC has already had a knee jerk reaction with Stern who I am also have been a fan of since the 1980 's when I was just a teen ager. Now I am in my 30's and have a master's degree. What you should understand is that there is the freedom for people to not listen or not listen by turning the station. But by eliminating the choice you are trampling on everyone's right. This is not the America I was taught about in school.
